Report on ICT Classes for the Academic Session 2019-20, ~~2020-21~~, 2021-22, 2022-23 &

The History Department is deeply committed to adopting more engaging teaching strategies to ensure that both students and educators never experience teaching and learning as repetitive. Moreover, enhancing students' curiosity towards various computer applications is another goal of this department. Classes using ICT have proven successful in achieving this objective. The department is ready to provide a summary of ICT classes through this report.

2019-20

The department initiated ICT classes in 2019. It's important to note that the ICT classes have exclusively been available to honours students. However, in March 2020, the onset of the lockdown presented an opportunity for teachers to innovate and deliver ICT-based education in various formats. They leveraged platforms such as Google Classroom, Google Meet, and WhatsApp groups for communication. Additionally, audio calls over WhatsApp were utilized for classes with small number of students when the internet connection was unstable. This initiative encouraged students to utilize their email addresses, leading to a 100% completion rate for home assignments and examination scripts submitted online.

2020-21

This session witnessed an increase in the number of ICT classes. Written class tests for internal assessments were taken on the Google Meet platform making students switch on camera during examination.

2021-22 & 2022-23

The department's usual tasks included ICT lessons. Additionally, the approach adopted a fresh rule of presenting brief documentaries towards the conclusion of the classes on Gandhar Art and the Cuban Missile Crisis, aiming to enhance the students' engagement and interest.

Future Plan:

The department aims to implement CIA or alternative internal assessments via Google Forms to enhance their students' technological proficiency.
